Here are a few Thanksgiving safety tips to keep your pets safe, healthy and happy during the holiday.

Food

Did you know many Thanksgiving staples are toxic to pets? Turkey skin, onion, raisins, grapes, chocolate, artificial sweetener (xylitol), yeast dough and fatty foods are toxic to dogs and cats, and can cause potentially fatal health conditions. Keep furry friends away from the table!

Parties & Guests

Although celebrations may be different this year, we encourage pet owners to include their pets in their holiday planning. If you know your pet gets anxious or over excited around guests, consider keeping them in a separate room with food, water and their favorite toy. Celebrating virtually or with the people you live with is the safest choice this Thanksgiving.

Travel

If your holiday plans involve traveling elsewhere for multiple days, make sure you've made the proper accommodations for your pet. Consider boarding them at a pet hotel or hiring a trusted friend to care for your pet everyday while you're gone.
